

Jaime Escalante (1930-2010) was a Bolivian-born American educator who inspired the 1988 movie "Stand and Deliver," which detailed his success helping inner city students master calculus at Garfield High School in East Los Angeles. Escalante rejected the notion that inner city students couldn't learn advanced mathematics, and always had the highest expectations for his students.

Jaime Escalante

Celebrate
HISPANIC HERITAGE

SEPTEMBER 15 – OCTOBER 15

NYSUT Principle #7 for Defining Excellence in P-12 Public Education: "... Every student must have access to a high-quality education."

514A_10

NYSUT, a statewide union of professionals, is proud to partner with the Hispanic community in ensuring a quality education and future for all students. For more on the important contributions of Hispanic Americans, visit www.nysut.org.

